“Good vision is vital to your enjoyment of life. That’s why you want the best possible care for your most precious asset. You want an experienced doctor who listens and understands your concerns and who offers you the exceptional vision care you deserve. For over a decade, I’ve stayed on top of the latest advances in eye exams, contact lenses, eyeglasses and the treatment of eye disease. My ultimate goal is help you achieve and maintain clear, healthy vision which, ultimately, can enhance your quality of life.”

“I’ve always wanted to care for people and help improve their quality of life. This is what led me to pursue a career in medicine, specifically, optometry. It is personally and professionally rewarding for me to be able to help patients achieve and maintain clear, healthy vision. One of the ways I do this is by comanaging surgical cases with other eye doctors, which is something I really enjoy.

“I believe that patients deserve highly personalized, one-on-one care when they come in for their appointments. That’s why I’ll take the time to really get to know you on a personal level. Finally, I strive not only to make you feel special and relaxed but to keep you well-informed about the latest advances in optometry.”

Dr. Boyd is married and has three children. She places a lot of importance on the community and gives her time to organizations and projects that extend beyond healthcare. She is an active participant in the local diabetic health fair, diabetic walkathon, local job fair for high-school juniors and the New Visions Program for selected high-school seniors. Dr. Boyd also helps raise funds for Literacy Volunteers and diabetes.
